Route Design and Risk Assessment

At Pennine Events, we have perhaps the greatest range of knowledge in the country. This comes not just from our professional experience, but also as participants and active people in cycling, running, outdoor swimming, fell-running, adventure races and climbing for example. Indeed, within our network we know the UK countryside and urban areas in depth and what makes and interesting, safe route.

When you add to this our working relationships with local authorities and police forces across the country, links to sports organisations and clubs, knowledge of the Traffic Management Act 2008 and its implications for events on the highway, and our understanding of the needs of high-profile clients, who better to ensure you get the perfect route for your event and for the route to be approved by the authorities
